

AH, THE MYSTERIES OF LIFE...

A confidence man scams billions.

Politicians fear talking about issues.

Marriage is sweet; divorce is sour.

This is the human condition...

But why is this the human condition?

That's what this book is about.

It's about why humans think the way we do.

Roger White is a careful observer of life and people, and he's done so from many interesting perspectives. He was a soldier in Vietnam in the 60's, a college student at MIT in the 70's, a computer network pioneer in the 80's, and a teacher in Korea in the 90's.

Roger thinks about how technology affects how we live, and then writes about it.
